The Master Practitioner Certification Series January 19-21, 2007

Metaphor Magic and Advanced Submodalities

Since the dawn of mankind, telling stories has been a powerful means of instilling values and changing beliefs, such as the popular children story, "Alice In Wonderland". As such, it represents one of our most meaningful forms of communication.

Metaphors provide vicarious learning experiences and/or a new perspective toward solutions and understanding. An effective metaphor will arouse curiosity, stimulate imagination, be attuned to anxieties and aspirations, give full recognition to the problem, develop options toward solutions, convey overt and covert meanings, speak simultaneously to many levels of human personality and communicate in a manner that reaches the unconscious. Of all the wonderful skills available, metaphors are frequently the most graceful and simplest to incorporate.

In this weekend, you will also learn Advanced Submodalities. Changing submodalities can dramatically alter how a person reacts to, or responds to, their past, present and future.

This information will diminish limitations and unresourceful states while intensifying resource states and generating new points of view that empower people and give them new insights and higher states of consciousness.

IT'S ALL IN YOUR MIND... AND HOW YOU USE IT!

“One of the most important things you get from NLP is to discover that it is by connecting learning and having fun together, that you make changing pleasant. When people connect change and pleasantness, you will notice it happens easily, quickly and automatically build upon itself to motivate people to be more attracted to it.”

Graduate Feedback

“This letter is long overdue. I attended your weekend class on Tranceformational Selling and I have no background in sales whatsoever. I think I got some good stuff from that NLP class. Something’s different about my thinking and my attitude and how I deal with people. I’m seeing possibilities instead of impossibilities. It’s related to that class. I need to take the NLP Level ONE class you recommended. I like this a lot! I’m finding less fear of asking questions of strangers and doing new things. I’m suddenly more comfortable and confident doing what I’m doing but I can’t explain why.

I owe you and everyone involved in the NLP classes my heartfelt thanks. You were patient and kind with a newcomer full of silly questions and you explained and modeled the NLP terminology in a way I could follow. I feel I’ve moved from the passenger to the driver’s seat in my life. There really aren’t words good enough to describe everything. This NLP class has opened the door to many new things for me and I know I will enjoy life in general more fully for having experienced it. Thank you SO very much, and please feel free to share this if you wish.”

HEALTH & NLP

Is NLP Good For Your Health?

NLP is a model for understanding how a person perceives ones world, organizes ones perceptions and uses that information to interact with ones world. The methodology allows for quickly changing detrimental patterns and for replicating useful skills. It's how to use the language of the mind to consistently achieve desired results.

Many times an unrecognized belief will block the progress to health. Sometime a person's unconscious choices about how to sort life's experiences will make health maintenance difficult. Sometimes a significant emotional experience from the past (even if repressed out of awareness) will create disease. And for achieving and maintaining real optimum health, these issues and experiences must be gently and completely, dealt with.

NLP has developed some powerful ways to uncover and change limiting beliefs, to deal with trauma and other significant problems from the past and to change the unconscious choice patterns that "set up" the conditions for serious health issues.

A group of NLP researchers did a study on cancer patients. They found that virtually all of the cancer patients had a special set of about a dozen unconscious choice patterns: such as paying attention to what they don't want, rather than what they do want: or, choosing to wait for what comes, rather than making things happen. In addition, they found in studying a controlled group of people without cancer, that none of them had the same set of unconscious choice patterns, though some of them had one or two of the patterns on a random basis.

The research then offered to use NLP to help the cancer patients change their unconscious choice patterns. Several of the patients agreed to try it. Significantly, the researchers reported that of those patients who were changed with NLP, most of them who actually changed their unconscious choice patterns experienced significant improvements in their symptoms.

Here at NLP Learning Systems Corporation, we've known for years that the body often is affected by verbal statements. We have worked with hundreds of people on health issues. Heal the physical body and it has to affect the mental and emotional bodies. When you feel good, you do good... in all areas of your life. If you have a question you would like to explore between thoughts/language and health, please give the office a call. 972-931-9984.

MPCT SESSION 4 ERICKSONIAN LANGUAGE PATTERNS April 20-22, 2007

Take a deep breath and quietly say the word RELAX to yourself three times, and now, take another deep breath and allow yourself to wonder about the power of "Ericksonian Language Patterns." I wonder if you fully realize what could be possible for you to achieve in your personal life, your career, and in your change work on yourself and others...maybe...probably not...yet you will.

Experience a guided tour into your unconscious mind. Since behavior is subconscious in nature, it is the ability to effectively take a person inside, that can greatly improve the change process. In this fun and provocative weekend, you will learn how to take yourself, and others, into deeper levels of mind, where change takes place.

Remember, this class starts at 1 pm on Friday!

Friday: 1 PM–10 PM

Saturday: 10 AM–6 PM

Sunday: 10 AM–6 PM

WOW, is what I can say and Thank you! Diamonds has been one of the most powerful classes in NLP that I have ever taken. Also out of all the classes I have taken at NLP, Diamond's techniques have given me the fastest results. It's funny because I began my NLP training trying to prove none of this stuff worked. The following is just one of many many examples in my NLP portfolio. Diamonds was the first class I took. I was a rebellious teenager in high school at the time. I remember taking a test in biology when I came to a question that completely stumped me. I used my mental screen and pictured my teacher's head and placed it over mine like a helmet. I asked the question on the test to her in my head. In the classroom my teacher spoke out asking me if I said something. I was not only stunned but very much amazed. I was even more amazed when I got my test back and the answer that came to me turned out to be right. Thank you again for this wonderful information. It has not only turned my life around, but it has given me new eyes to experience a new life all together. Thank you again.

Let's Move Forward: NLP Level ONE

Have you ever been in a situation when things just seem to fall into place with a satisfying ease that surprised you?

Have you ever found yourself in perfect synchrony with another person, where the beneficial outcome seemed to flow from rapport that was somehow established so naturally?

NLP, or "Neuro-Linguistic Programming" is the science devoted to determining how those moments of excellence occur. The aim of NLP is to make successful thinking and communication a conscious choice, rather than an unconscious accident. The seminar consists of lecture, demonstrations, and exercises material to facilitate the development of NLP skills in your everyday life experiences. It is easy and powerful and you will notice the results immediately.

Here the learning is about how we can use our behavior and our language to influence ourselves, as well as others, and about the personal change and growth that comes from having these skills.

Think for a moment how an increased sense of power and influence would affect your environment at your workplace ...in your relationships...and your ability to help yourself and others make positive changes!!!

Dear NLP:

It has been a great month since my visit to you. The goal reaching exercise has created many new and wonderful things. I achieved a 100% increase in sales this month. I have new prospects that can produce not only additional money, but more prestige for me and the studio. I also have been fortunate in coming home to a personal trainer who will be instructing me in martial arts. It has become a time for many wonderful changes. I am looking forward to coming down to Dallas again within the next two months. I would very much like to spend more time in the classes.

I will call you as soon as I have more information about my flight down. My Best.

Dear Tony and N.L.P. Staff:

I wanted to share with you an experience I recently had with simple Anchoring. I took my two sons swimming (the youngest one who is 5 years old could not swim at that time). Travis (the youngest) decided that he could not swim, and could not get into deep water without a life preserver or the equivalent. I finally started to pay attention to his language, and what he kept telling me on this particular day was that "he could not learn it". So I got him to start talking about things he COULD learn, and in fact, things he HAD learned (in school, etc.) -- and while he was doing this, I set an anchor. So I proceeded to teach him to swim, and each time he said he could not learn it, I fired his "learning" anchor. Within 10 minutes, my son was swimming on his own and very happily, I might add. Until this happened, I hadn't really considered using N.L.P. on my children. For me, this has opened a new door to many possibilities in parenting. Vallarie D.

... a "rewarding journey into myself"

I was referred to NLP through Dr. Karen Asbury. I heard she had a unique approach to healing and what I'd been doing wasn't working. At the time of going to see her, I was and had been in a deep state of depression for many years. I've been under the care of both psychiatrists and therapists for as long as I can remember and my state of mind never improved much. I asked her advice on any alternatives she knew of and that's when she suggested I go to the 12 Hour Belief Change Workshop. She told me to do anything I could to get there, that I'd be able to release a lot of the crap I'd been holding on to and allowing to control my present state of mind. That's all I needed to hear, I convinced my dad that he should help me get to the class and surprisingly he was all for it. I went with a very open mind, but was incredibly nervous.

Throughout the class I was feeling very disassociated with what was going on. I couldn't understand how any of what we were doing could help me. Then, something clicked in me in the last couple of hours when I was at the last of Jan's many writing assignments for the day. I was originally irritated to have to do it and Jan told me I didn't have to do it if I didn't want to....then of course, I had to do it since I was given permission not to.

During that last assignment something changed in me. I can't really put it into words. I felt a sense of hope that I hadn't felt in years. My difficulties from my past no longer mattered. I gave them recognition for what they were and then buried them. For the first time in over 10 years, I have hope. I've had a few rocky days here and there, but overall I haven't gone back to the desperate state of sadness and pain I constantly lived in since the end of the weekend of the workshop. I have hope for the first time in my life that I can handle what comes at me and still be okay.

I just wanted to say thank you to all of the trainers that helped me overcome some of my demons that weekend and were supportive through a very difficult, yet rewarding journey into myself. I've asked to be shown mentors in my life for a long time. Now I feel like I am surrounded by them. The wisdom that comes from Jan and Dr. Cheryl is an inspiration to me and I am very thankful to have found NLP.
